

Hello colleagues! Welcome to TrashedWorld bulletin number 2. You'll find here an update of all the latest news and events from the TrashedWorld programme.

Keith Kelly (Jan 20th 2017)

ELTons

We're pleased to be able to announce that TrashedWorld has got through the first round (longlisting) of the ELTons awards that recognise and celebrate innovation in English language teaching. The shortlists will be announced in March 2017. Cross your fingers, squeeze your thumbs. Watch this space!

Wrappers investigation!

We saw this example of packaging madness. It would make a great investigation for your students. Get them exploring redundant packaging in your local area, collect examples, take photos, video and share that with TrashedWorld partners. Which countries have good packaging policies?

Appeal!

Send us your students' work. We know you're all getting on with your projects. Well, if you have products you would like to share (PPT, photos, video, posters etc) send them to us and we will publish them on our site. Don't forget, your great work acts as example for newcomers!

UNESCO Conference

More good news! TrashedWorld will participate in the UNESCO Week on the role of Education in Sustainability in Ottawa, March 6th to 10th, 2017. We will run an exhibition booth and co-present a workshop. We hope to share TrashedWorld with the 400 delegates from all over the world. More soon!

TW Network

Our network has grown now to include 165 schools all over the world in 45 countries at last count! Keep sharing the news, and spreading the word please. We rely on you to help grow our network!

Partners!

Don't forget, you can always join and use the FACTWorld group to look for partners. The Forum for Across the Curriculum Teaching has over 3500 teachers around the world all interested in school project.

Invitation

last but not least, TrashedWorld has been invited to run a joint workshop for the International Day of the ASE (Association for Science Education) in Reading, UK in January 2018. We will share TrashedWorld at this important Science teachers' conference.

Do send us your news and, I repeat, your students' work please!

Best regards,
Keith