

Hi everybody. Welcome to TrashedWorld bulletin number 6 - Empowering the Student Voice! You'll find ideas for getting students active.

Keith Kelly (Nov 12th 2017)

Bulgarian TV coverage - We got some air time recently when the Bulgarian national TV network BNT2 did a news item on a TrashedWorld event. TrashedWorld collaborated with Anglia School and the European Association of Teachers to put on a workshop for teachers and a viewing the Trashed documentary.

FACTWorld CLIL Teachers' Meeting - FACTWorld is a global network of over 3500 teachers all interested in CLIL and interschools collaboration and exchanges. This meeting brought together teachers from Bulgaria (Plovdiv, Burgas, Hissarya) and abroad (Turkey) for a day-long workshop on CLIL Projects, hosted by Anglia School, Plovdiv. There was a strong thread which discussed developing 'life skills' in the curriculum. There were many ideas to follow up with from this event. All are listed below.

Trashed Movie Viewing - In the programme of the day's workshop we had a showing of the documentary Trashed which we opened to all-comers, including the teachers at the workshop and this brought more visitors to Anglia School to watch the film. A recent development is that we managed to prepare Bulgarian subtitles for the film, and this means that it can be viewed by non-speakers of English. The film was followed by energetic discussion and more ideas for things we can all do to develop a sustainable lifestyle.

Follow up -

- Nearly all of the colleagues who came to the workshop expressed a desire to develop TrashedWorld in their curriculum and teaching! They will be given a free subscription to the programme.
- Daniella Hristova from the French School in Plovdiv will continue her fabulous work on the project with an extra-curricular group of enthusiastic students at the school. I will pay the club a visit and we will focus on developing 'activism' among the students by way of lobbying letter writing, for example, to relevant institutions. Plus, the French school will host a viewing of the documentary. Thanks!
- Irina Mitarcheva from the Plovdiv University of Medicine will also host a viewing of the film with student doctors for a discussion on health issues in the documentary. Thanks!
- Bistra Poshtova from the University of Plovdiv will offer a showing of the film to preschool pedagogy students with a view to discussing how to develop sustainability education with young learners! Thanks!

This is all very exciting. Now we have space in Anglia School, we can offer more workshops for teachers and get the word out further! Come and join us! and help spread the word around the world! Best wishes, Keith
